

James “Bone” Dexter, P.T., M.A., Lecturer II

James Dexter, P.T., M.A., is a graduate of the UNM Physical Therapy Program and has been working at University Hospital and teaching at the Health Sciences Center since 1982. His primary clinical interests are in orthopaedics, geriatrics and prosthetics/orthotics. He has a master's degree in education and he is involved in clinical research with the Department of Orthopaedics.