

Celebrating Corporate Compliance and Ethics Week, Nov. 3-9, 2023 – also known as Compliance Week at the University of New Mexico and UNM Health Sciences Center (HSC).

Compliance as a Resource

The UNM Health Sciences Compliance Office oversees compliance for all colleges and departments of the UNM Health Sciences Center (HSC), and the entities within the UNM Health System, including the UNM Hospital Lomas and Sandoval Campuses and the UNM Medical Group. The primary purpose of the Compliance Office is to work with these entities to proactively enhance and promote positive compliance-related outcomes.

How do we do this? Below are a few examples of how the Compliance Office can help:

- Provide topic-specific education, information, and training to individuals, departments, colleges, providers and clinics.
- Help with the interpretation of regulations and policies to ensure they align with the activities and initiatives of your areas.
- Help with the development and/or operations of risk assessments and audits requested by or required of departments, colleges, providers and clinics.

The Compliance Office is here to be a valuable resource to you in proactively identifying and mitigating risks, ensuring adherence to applicable laws, regulations, internal policies and guidelines, promoting a culture of ethical conduct, protecting the organization's reputation, and ultimately safeguarding the organization from operational disruptions. To take advantage of how the Compliance Office can be a resource to you, we encourage you to contact any of the following individuals to learn more about how we can assist you with your departmental needs, projects, and initiatives.

- Angela Vigil, Compliance Officer - angmvigil@salud.unm.edu
- Brie Delvin, HSC Compliance Manager - bdelvin@salud.unm.edu
- Susan Rivera, Health System Compliance Manager - skrivera@salud.unm.edu

