

Local Anesthesia for the Dental Hygienist

Continuing Dental Education Program

FEBRUARY 23-25, 2022 | 8AM-4PM | PRICE: $1,200 | 40 CEUs

Local anesthesia for the practicing dental hygienist is a 5 day local anesthesia course that will prepare the practicing dental hygienist to take the WREB Local Anesthesia Examination or equivalent examination.

A video link, course packet and textbook will be sent to the attendee three weeks prior to the course for content information.

There will be two days of clinical practice during the February dates and one day that the attendee can schedule closer to a clinical board examination.

This five day course includes all the information that is taught in the UNM semester-long local anesthesia course (no course information or requirements are excluded).

Course content includes the following: neurophysiology, neuroanatomy, medical history review, pharmacology, local and systemic complications, armamentarium and injection techniques.

Director at The University of New Mexico School of Medicine.

Professor Logothetis has lectured nationwide on pain control modalities and teaching strategies for pain control. Her book is focused on teaching dental hygienists how to effectively integrate local anesthesia into clinical practice.

Course Instructor:
Demetra Logothetis, RDH, MS,
Professor Emeritus and Graduate Program

Class size is limited. Registrations will be accepted on a first come basis.

All courses are held at Novitski Hall, 900 Yale Blvd. Albuquerque, NM. Parking passes will be provided upon arrival.

The next local anesthesia board exam will be offered in June 2022 at UNM, allowing the dental hygienist who successfully completes the course to take the local anesthesia board following this course.

Dental hygienists planning to take the WREB exam must register on line at www.wreb.org to take the exam.
