

UNM DPT Program Prerequisites Worksheet

Required Course	Credit Hours	Courses Taken	Total Credits	Final Grade
Exercise Physiology Must be an advanced level (300 or higher) physiology class that is beyond the A&P requirement. Preference is given for Advanced Exercise Physiology.	3 Credits
Psychology You must have two psychology classes. These classes can be a combination of different classes such as Introduction to Psychology or Developmental and/or Abnormal Psychology. We recommend abnormal and/or developmental be at least one of your two.	6 credits
Statistics Must be a standalone statistics class (not just part of a research class).	3 credits
Anatomy & Physiology I Lecture and lab is required to total 4 credits. Class must include structure and function of the HUMAN body and organization/integration of systems. Must be taken within 5 years of applying.	4 Credits
Anatomy & Physiology II Lecture and lab is required to total 4 credits. Class must include structure and function of the HUMAN body and organization/integration of systems. Must be taken within 5 years of applying.	4 Credits
Chemistry I Lecture and lab required to total 4 credits.	4 Credits
Chemistry II Lecture and lab required to total 4 credits.	4 Credits
Physics I Lecture and lab required to total 4 credits. *Algebra & Calculus based physics accepted.	4 Credits
Physics II Lecture and lab required to total 4 credits. *Algebra & Calculus based physics accepted.	4 Credits
	36 Credits Total

Using your transcript(s), complete the form matching the courses you have taken to the prerequisites listed. The UNM DPT Program requires a minimum of 3.0 GPA for ALL prerequisite courses.
 Submit to HSC-UNMPTProgram@salud.unm.edu for review.