

SOUTHWEST

CLINICAL TRIALS NETWORK

A collaboration of clinics and researchers to address the opioid epidemic in the Southwest region.

Join Us!

What is the CTN Program?

- A nationwide collaborative funded by the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA) to unite with medical and specialty treatment providers, researchers, and patients
- The Southwest CTN Node works to increase practice-based research by partnering with clinical sites

Practice-based research facilitates the integration of evidence-based treatment into standard clinical care much sooner than with traditional research models.

What CTN offers:

- Funding and research staff support for conducting practice-based research at your clinic
- CTN's team will support all levels of research activities including working with the IRB, training, quality assurance, and study implementation
- Opportunities to connect with other specialty providers, researchers, and patients who share overlapping interests and goals

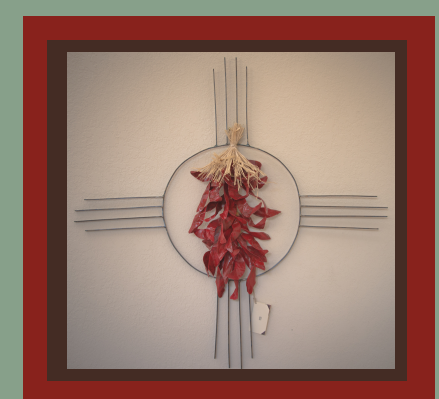

For more information:

 Website: <https://casaa.unm.edu/SouthwestNode>

 Email: SouthwestCTN@salud.unm.edu

 Facebook: @SouthwestNode

Southwest CTN Priorities

- ◇ Patients and Populations:
 - Primary Care
 - Diverse Populations
 - Opioid Focus
 - Rural Resources
- ◇ Medications for Addiction Treatment
- ◇ Community Engagement