

Are you an environmental health scientist who would like to work with local New Mexico communities?

NM INSPIRES Community Engagement Core (CEC) team can help!

New Mexico Integrative Science Program Incorporating Research in Environmental Sciences Center (NM INSPIRES) is funded by National Institutes of Environmental Health Sciences (NIEHS) to support community-academic collaborations.

What we can do for you free of charge:

- Identify relevant communities and audiences
- Recruit participants
- Collect qualitative data
- Conduct focus groups and interviews
- Help with survey design
- Design culture-centered, plain language communication materials, from recruitment fliers to information about your study's result and reporting back to the community
- ...and more!

➔ Contact Dr. Tamar Ginossar for more details or to schedule an introductory meeting
Email: cecinspires@unm.edu

